GRAMMAR

Imperatives (negative)

We use negative imperatives to tell someone not to do something.
We usually put don't or no before the verb.

Don't open the door!

No littering.

What are some reminders you hear every day that tell you not to do something?

CONVERSATION

Timmy is at the zoo. He is talking to the guide about snakes.

Look, a snake! I heard that snakes can be good pets.
Not all snakes are good pets. That snake is called a viper. It's very dangerous.
VIPER

Do you mean that it has poison?
Yes, that's right. It can easily kill other animals with just a bite.
VIPER

So how can we tell whether a snake is a viper or a normal snake?
Most snakes have an oval head, but a viper's head is triangle-shaped.
VIPER

Look at its two sharp teeth! I guess normal snakes don't have them.
They are called "fangs." The poison in a viper's fangs is very strong. So its bite can be deadly. Don't go near them!
