Let's Read!

A story must have characters.

A character is the person, animal, or object that a story is about.

What a character looks like shows the physical traits of the character.

What a character says and does shows the personality traits of the character.

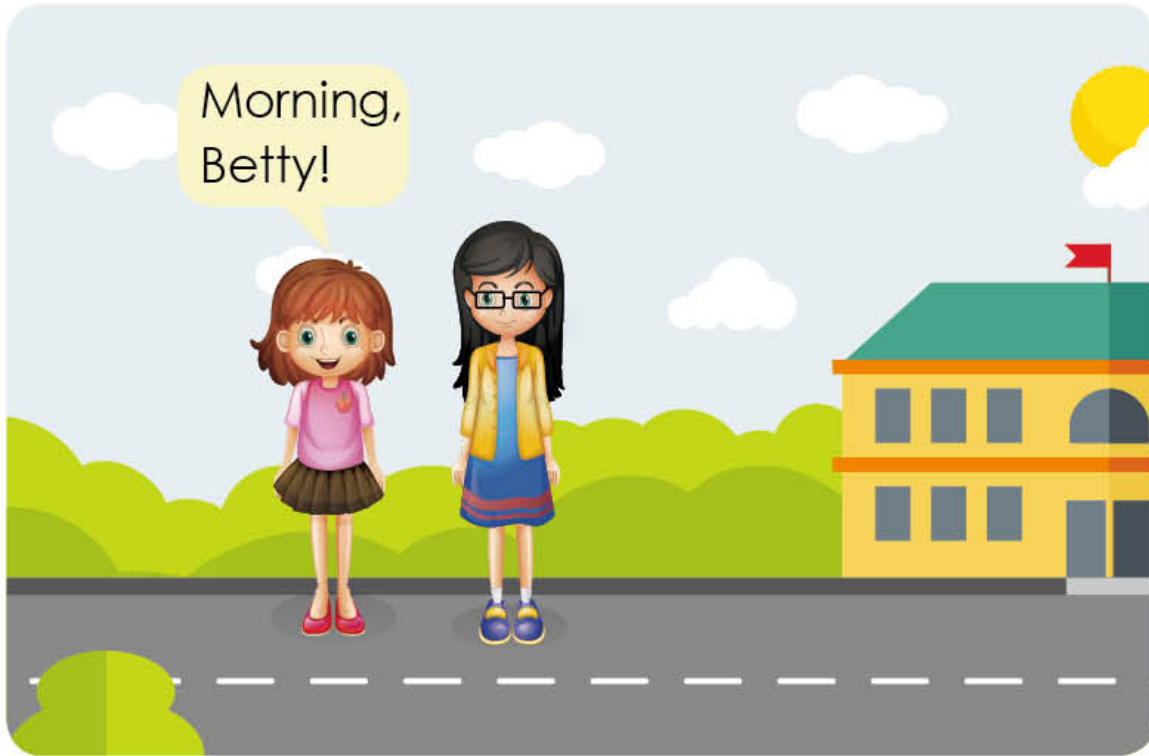

Miss Gloria is an eleven-year-old girl with blond hair.

"Only I can use them. Maybe you can ask others."

Gloria held her chocolate bar tight and said ...

Alice and Betty are the main characters of this story.

What the characters look like shows the physical traits of the characters.

Alice is a short, lively girl with two big eyes. She has a friend named Betty, who has long black hair and wears a pair of glasses.

Today was a sunny day. Alice saw Betty on her way to school. She ran up to Betty, clapped her on the shoulder and said happily, "Morning, Betty!" Betty gave her a glance, and went straight ahead without saying a word.

What does Alice look like?

“What happened, Betty? Are you sick?”

Alice felt confused and asked. “No,” Betty answered in a low voice without looking.

“There must be something wrong. You can tell me. Maybe I can help. We are friends, right?” said Alice. “Friends wouldn’t say something bad behind the other’s back!” Betty shouted and then ran away.

“Is she angry at me? Did I say something bad about her?” Alice fell into deep thought.

What a character says shows the personality traits of the character.

Why did Betty shout and run away?

Later, when Alice was in art class, she realized what was wrong the moment she saw the art projects they drew last week. She got a B while Betty got an A+. When she talked about it with Tina, she said Betty's project was not that good and shouldn't be given an A+. "Maybe Tina told Betty about this," Alice realized, "It's my fault. I must say sorry to Betty."

What a character does also shows the personality traits of the character.

Why was Betty angry at Alice?

I'm sorry...

Did Betty forgive Alice?
What are Alice's and Betty's personalities like?

During the break, Alice saw Betty was seated at the desk alone. She went over to Betty and said: "I'm sorry for saying bad things about your art project. Can you forgive me?" Betty replied, "Next time you can just tell me in person. Friends always tell the truth, right?" "Yes, they do," Alice said. Then they smiled at each other and went to the playground for P.E. class together.
