Let's talk!

Introduction

Timmy's homework is to look at a world globe and draw a map of the world's oceans. Jimmy tries to help him...

What are you doing, Timmy?

I am making a poster that shows the world's five oceans.

Well, sorry to tell you, but the Pacific Ocean should be the biggest one, not the Atlantic Ocean.

Oh gosh, thanks! It's so difficult to draw – the teacher said we could only use a globe.

Right. Well, again, sorry to tell you, but the Indian Ocean should separate Africa and Australia.

Aw shucks! Mistake number two! So maybe I should sketch out all seven continents first?

Yeah, good idea. And then don't forget the Arctic Ocean and Southern Ocean.

Thanks, Jimmy!
You're the best!

Let's practice!
