Do you still remember the words we learned just now?

Let's read!

One night, Timmy had a wonderful dream. He was a prince! He lived in a beautiful castle and ate lots and lots of peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwiches every day. He was really happy... but also quite fat!

Why was Timmy fat in his dream?

One day, General Sam went to the castle and called out for Prince Timmy. But Prince Timmy didn't hear, and nor did Sir Fuzzy the dog, for they were both having a nice afternoon nap!

Grammar

Conjunction: and

We use "and" to join two sentences. It makes one longer sentence from two shorter sentences.

e.g. A General Sam went to the castle.

B General Sam called out for Prince Timmy.

General Sam went to the castle and called out for Prince Timmy.

General Sam shouted again: “Hey! Prince Timmy! Quickly – we must rescue Lady Cindy! The evil Lord Jack has locked her in his tower! And there’s a dragon, so I’m really scared!”

Why must they rescue Lady Cindy?

“Don’t be afraid, Sam!” shouted Prince Timmy. He then ran to his horse... but only after eating another sandwich! Some time later, they arrived at evil Lord Jack’s tower. “Help! Argh! No! Please!” cried out Lady Cindy.

What did Prince Timmy do before he ran to his horse?

The dragon roared, and General Sam ran away! But Prince Timmy had an idea... He took out his emergency sandwich and threw it as far as he could. The hungry dragon ran after the sandwich and Timmy quickly rescued Lady Cindy!

What was Prince Timmy's idea?

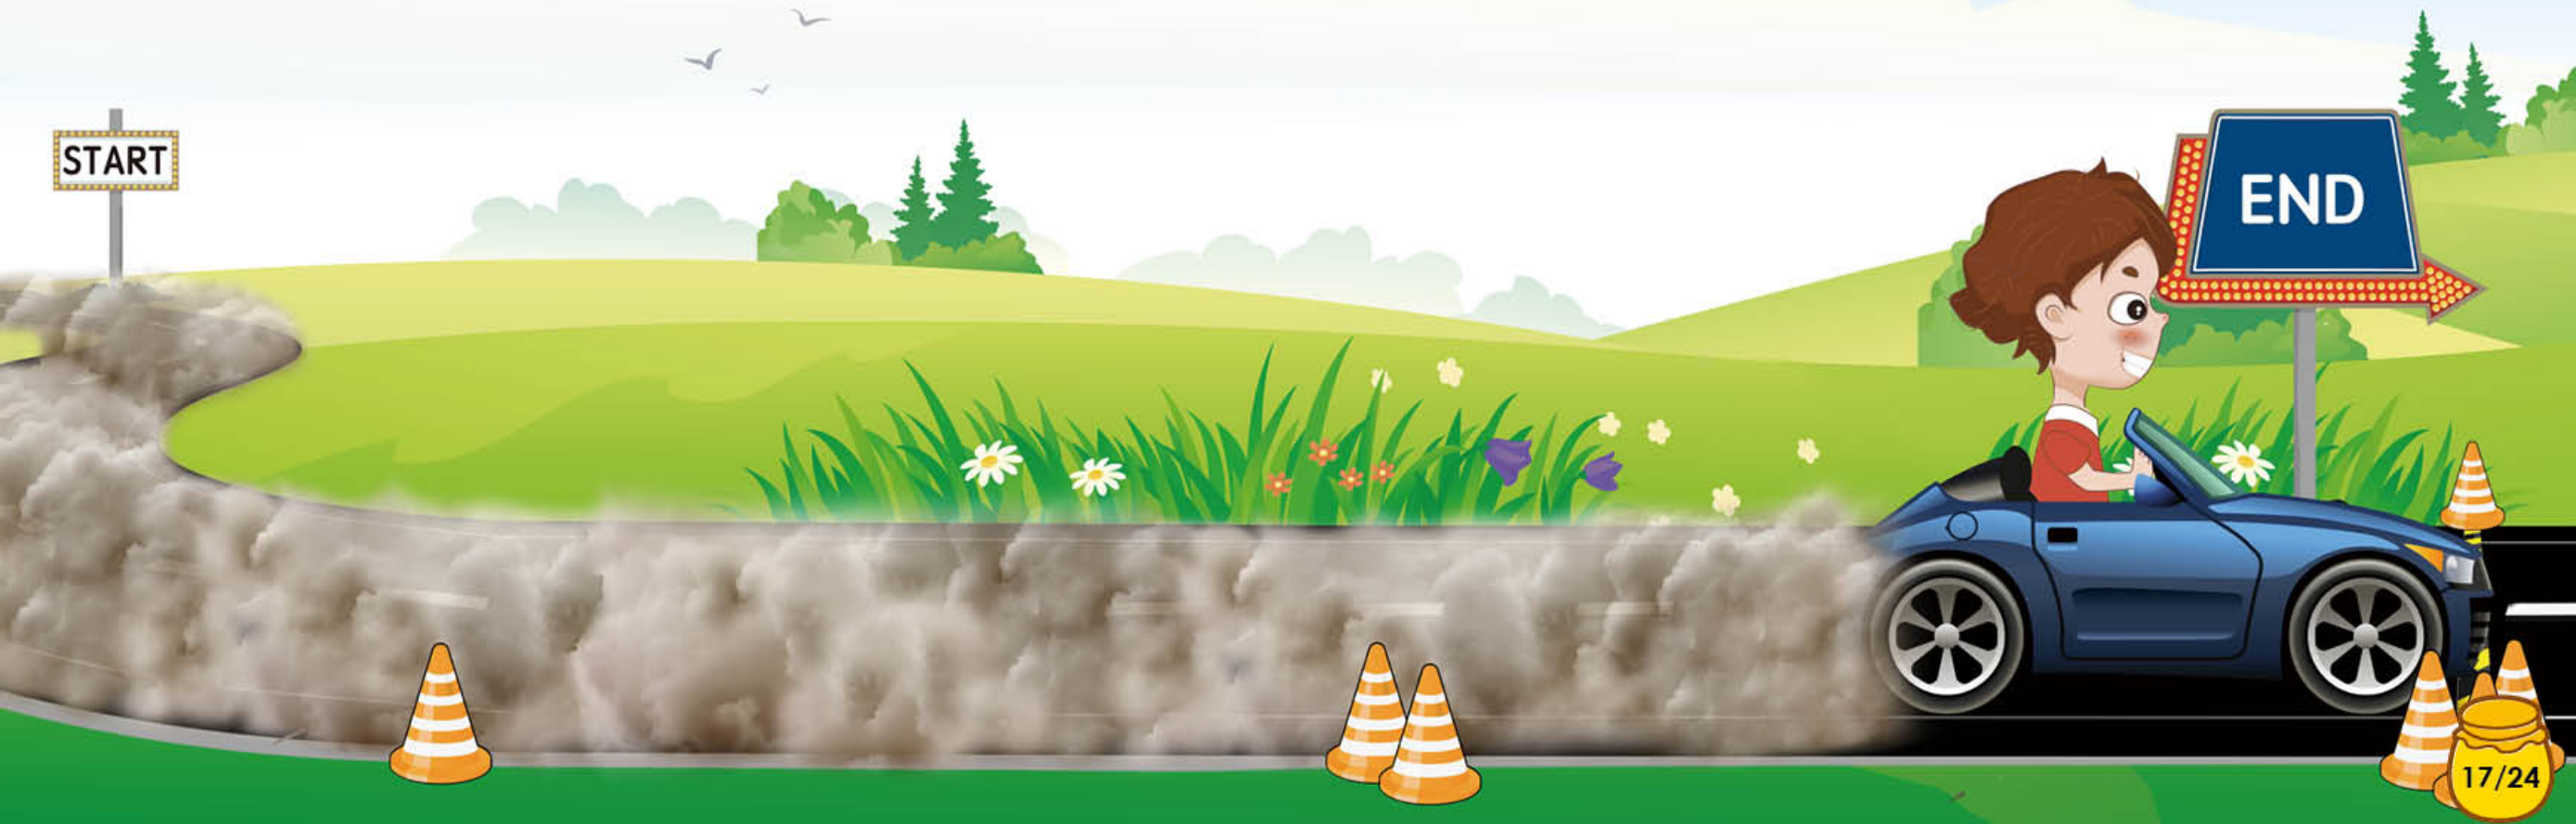

"You are my hero, Prince Timmy!" cried Lady Cindy. Prince Timmy smiled. "Anytime, my lady! But just remember that you owe me a sandwich...!"

What did Prince Timmy tell Lady Cindy to remember?
