

Are You Ready?

Listen to me. → → Eyes on me. ← ←

Hello, Mr. President!

Conversation

YES

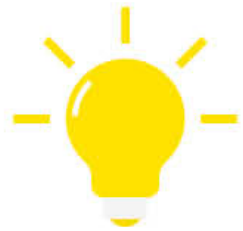

NO

You are going to learn:

Topic: Work and jobs —
Hello, Mr. President!

Words: task, speech, get rid of,
vote

Grammar: Phrasal verb (hold on)

Warm-up

What do you think of math tests?
Do you think they are easy?

Let's prepare!

It took her two hours to complete the writing task.

task

Which is a math task?

$$\begin{array}{l} 5+7= \\ 9+8= \\ 33-5= \end{array}$$

What can an elephant do?

He has to give a big
speech today.

speech

What's the topic of the girl's
speech?

She wants to get rid of her old toy.

get rid of

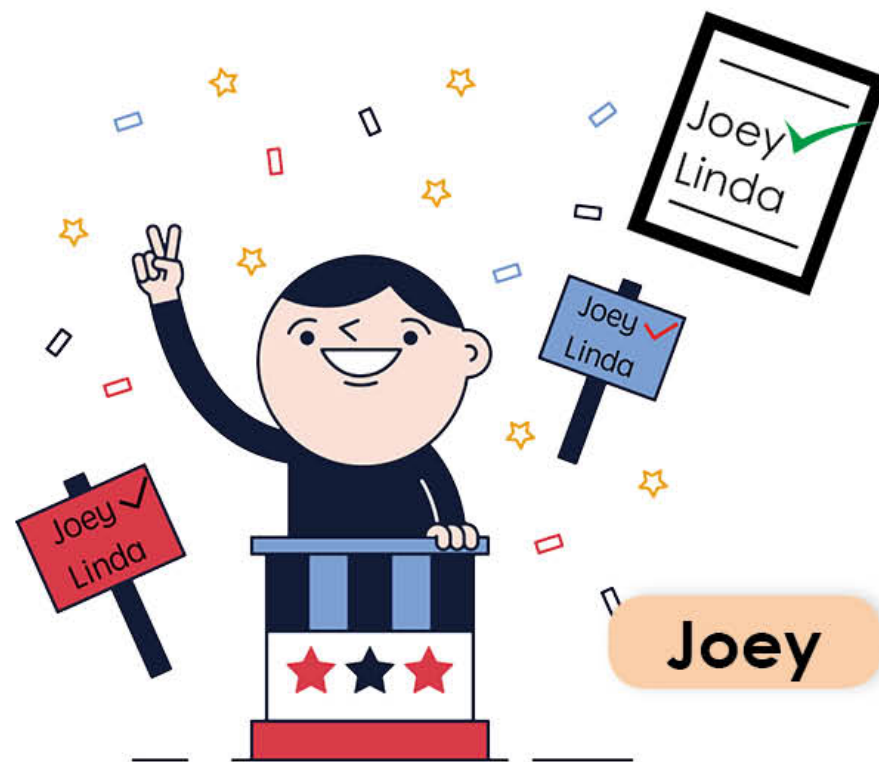

Which toy does she want to get rid of?

Most people voted Joey for the next year's president.

vote

Who did Sam vote for?

Grammar

Do you want to watch a movie this sunday?

Hey, Tom! Hold on, I need to check my plans first.

Hold on...

Hold on...

Let's talk!

Introduction

Timmy is sitting in the living room with a serious look on his face when Grandpa walks in.

Grandpa, we have a homework task called "If you are president." Actually, it's also one of my dreams.

Wow, well it's good to dream big! So tell me all about it.

I would live in the White House and give long TV speeches. Everyone would have to listen really carefully. That's totally cool!

Yes, but the president also needs to do things, like make important decisions.

YES

NO

Awesome! Then, I would get rid of math tests from schools forever!

~~No Math Tests~~

Hold on, there. Don't you think the president will need good math too?

Grammar

Phrasal verb: hold on “Hold on” means to wait for a short time.
e.g. Hold on, let me think.

Yeah. I guess... So hold on, how about I make a new holiday called Chocolate Day?

Now that's a good idea! "I vote Timmy!"

Let's practice!

Activity

Match the pictures with the words and make sentences.

task

get rid of

speech

vote

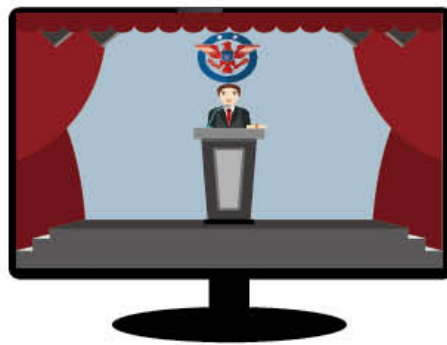

I have to give a speech to my classmates.

Activity

Talk to the teacher.

White House

TV speech

make decisions

If you were the president, what could you do?

I could...

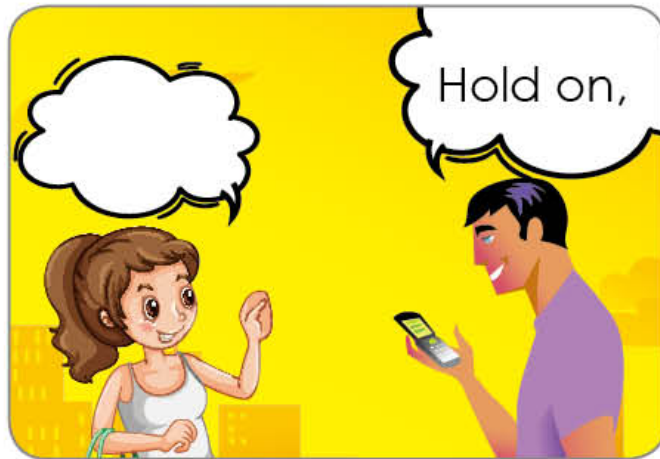

If you were the president, what else would you do?

I would...

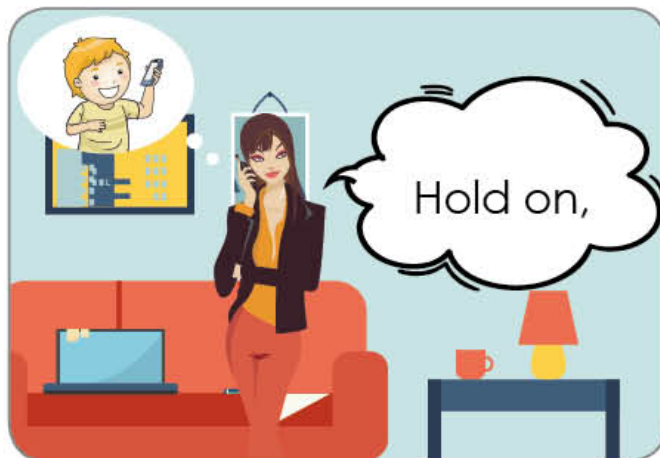

Activity

Complete and role-play.

Do you know Mia's number?

Empty speech bubble for the response.

Hello, is Candy at home?

Empty speech bubble for the response.

Today I learned:

Topic

Work and jobs —
Hello, Mr. President!

Words

task

speech

get rid of

vote

Grammar

Phrasal verb (hold on)

e.g. Hold on, there.

Don't you think the
president will need
good math too?

SEE YOU SOON!

51

TALK

