Grammar

What were you doing at 8 o'clock last night?

Let's talk!

Introduction

Timmy's father was trapped by a thunderstorm and caught a cold. He and Timmy are talking about the experience.

Dad, you don't look good. What happened?

I didn't notice that there would be a thunderstorm today, so I was trapped on my way to the lake.

That sounds terrible...
What happened?

I was driving to the lake, and suddenly some thick, dark storm clouds appeared and brought a thunderstorm with wind, rain and hail!

Grammar

The Past Continuous

We use the past continuous to talk about things that were happening in the past or when something else happened.

e.g. I was watching TV at 8 p.m. yesterday.

e.g. I was doing homework when my father came home.

Were you scared, Dad?
It sounds so dangerous!

Yeah, a little... But look! I took some
of the thunderstorm.

Oh, what bright lightning!
Where did it all come from?

In fact, it's due to a spark of electricity.

Yes, you told me about it before, and I also know that light travels faster than sound!

Yes. That's why we see the lightning before we hear the thunder.

Let's practice!
