GRAMMAR

Gerund phrase

A gerund is a noun made from a verb that ends in -ing. A gerund phrase consists of a gerund and its modifiers. A gerund or a gerund phrase may appear in the beginning, middle, or end of a sentence.

Running

in the morning

gerund + modifier
= gerund phrase

In this example, “running” is the gerund. The modifier “in the morning” gives us more information about the gerund. “Running in the morning” is the gerund phrase.

Identify the gerund phrase in these sentences.

1. Traveling to different countries is one of my hobbies.
2. Jacob's sister enjoys baking cookies every Saturday.
3. Ali and his friends are playing basketball.

CONVERSATION

Timmy is asking Anna about her family's trip to Bangkok, Thailand.

Anna, how was your family trip to Bangkok?

We had a lot of fun. We enjoyed visiting several places in the city.

Where did Anna and her family go?

That sounds great! What was the most interesting thing you saw there?

The diverse architecture. We saw modern skyscrapers and ancient temples in Bangkok.

What did Anna find in the city?

Wow! Did you see any animals there?

Yes, I did. We saw elephants in a zoo there. Our tour guide said there are a lot of them in the places that surround Bangkok.

What animal did Anna see?

Oh, I see. What other places did you visit?

We also visited the floating market. For me, going to the floating market was the best part of our trip because we don't usually see anything like that in other countries.

According to Anna, what was the best part of their trip?

It seems that you really enjoyed your trip to Bangkok.

I really did! It was a great experience. You should go there with your family sometime.

What does Anna suggest to Timmy?

• LET'S PRACTICE! •

ACTIVITY

Say if the sentence is true or false. If it's false, correct the sentence.

- 1 Anna and her family went to New York.
- 2 Elephants are common in Bangkok.
- 3 The best part of the trip was when Anna went to the street market.
- 4 Anna enjoyed her experience in Bangkok.

ACTIVITY

Use the words to make a gerund phrase. Then, make a sentence describing the picture.

paint

look

bake

watch

Example: I like painting colorful flowers.
