Let's Talk!

Conversation

01:00

Conversation setting.

Timmy and Cindy are talking about what book to share in next month's reading club.

Conversation

03:00

Role play the conversation.

Cindy, have you decided on which book to share during the reading time this month?

Yes, I've chosen The Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin. What about you, Timmy?

You know me. I love adventure stories, fantasies and stuff like that. This time I'm going to share The Indian in the Cupboard.

Grammar

during + noun

We use during + noun to say when something happens (not how long) e.g. The ground is wet. It must have rained during the night.

What kind of books will Cindy and Timmy share during the reading time this month?

Conversation

03:00

Role play the conversation.

An Indian in a cupboard? That sounds unbelievable. How could he fit in?

Nothing is impossible in a fantasy novel! Leave it to magic to do the work.

So what is the magic in this story?

There's a magic key which can bring toys in the cupboard to life. The Indian is actually a boy's plastic figure, who goes through a series of adventures when he comes to life.

What is the magic of The Indian in the Cupboard?

Conversation

03:00

Role play the conversation.

That sounds a little bit like The Chronicles of Narnia. The wardrobe in the house opens up a fantasy world of magic.

Oh, I've seen the movie, but had no idea there was a book on Narnia.

The book is quite a classic. You may want to make it the book of next month.

What is the similarity between The Chronicles of Narnia and The Indian in the Cupboard?
