1. Read and learn the following key words and sentences for the IELTS Part1. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (5 mins)

Key words and key sentences

 Example: Like in many places around the world, a Chinese wedding is a formal affair. The clothing worn by the attendees should be conventional and follow the standards of modern wedding practices. The groom typically wears a tuxedo, while the bride normally wears a wedding dress.

 Example: There are a number of differences between Chinese and Western weddings. The first difference is that western weddings are always held at a church, which is rare in China. Another difference might be the display of affection. Mostly, a Chinese bride will be rather shy; in contrast, a Western couple will be likely to express their affection publicly.

 Example: From my perspective, whether or not to live with their parents depends on the couple's financial situation and childcare issues. For the most part, a newly-married couple will live by themselves. However, in some cases, for instance, if they are in debt or have no time to look after their children, a couple might be forced to live with their parents.

Model 1

What & when: The worst weather I have experienced was last year in Beijing. There was a terrible dust storm one afternoon, and since I had never experienced such terrible weather before, it was definitely shocking to be caught in the midst of one.

What you were doing: I remember it was the weekend and I had to walk to school due to an annoying traffic jam. There was going to be a football match that day, and I was running a little bit late so I was busy answering a phone call from my friend. Just as soon as I exited the main building, I was shocked to see a hazy dust storm in the sky. It was very impressive, in a terrifying sort of way.

What influence: One major effect this weather had on me was that I got stuck on my way home. The football match was canceled immediately, so I got on my bike and went home. Soon my lungs became filled with dust. I couldn't see anything or breathe or find a place to hide myself. It took me the entire afternoon to get back home. The dust storm had ruined my jacket and my pants along with my whole plan for that day, especially the football match.
