Model 2

What&When: The most unpleasant weather condition I've had to deal with occurred a few years ago when I went on a vacation to Taiwan. On the third day of my vacation in Taiwan, I encountered a severe typhoon.

What you were doing: I was traveling from Taipei to Kending by train on that day, and as soon as I had departed from the train station and gone outside, I felt a powerful gust of wind blowing my hair over my face so severely that I could not see anything. I brought two suitcases with me, but even the suitcases were not heavy enough to stand against the violent gusts, they were blown away instead.

What influence: The typhoon caused a few changes to my original plan. I had to stay inside the hotel the entire day because it was heavily flooded outside. During the remaining days, as the area was waiting to be reconstructed, I had to tour places far from the popular scenic spots. I had heard about the destruction that typhoons often cause in the news, but experiencing a typhoon myself was an entirely different story!

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Read and learn the following key words and sentences for the IELTS Part 3. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (5 mins)

Key words and key sentences

drop

Example: Yes, I think geographical features can mainly influence the weather condition in a region. Northern China often gets heavy snow in winter, bringing a drop in the temperature. In contrast, Southern China is hot, humid and hardly ever snows, but in the summer people may experience severe rainfall and gusts brought by occasional typhoons.

depressed

Example: Bad weather can have many effects on people. An outer effect could be transportation issues, such as flight delays or traffic jams. Internally, bad weather can negatively affect someone's mood, making them feel depressed. Bad weather also can be dangerous to people. For example, people may get hurt in accidents caused by bad weather.

residence

Example: I think many cities will possibly face the threat of bad weather, so it is not the factor that matters when people choose their residence. I think normally people won't easily give up their jobs and everything else to move to another city just because of some occasional bad weather. I suppose that is why people learn to live with bad weather.

2. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (5 mins)

Please give two supporting ideas at least for each question.

Why do people live in places where the weather can sometimes be bad?
