Model 1

What and when: The Dragon-Boat Festival, also called the Duanwu Festival, is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth month according to the Chinese calendar.

What you did: For thousands of years, the festival has been marked by eating Zong Zi and racing dragon boats. The dragon-boat races are held in memory of Qu Yuan ,one of the greatest poets in China.

What you like or dislike: Actually, I don't like rice dumplings at all because it makes my stomach uncomfortable. However, I enjoy watching dragon boat races, because they are very exciting.

Why it's important: It is a traditional event which represents family reunion, and we have three days off. It provides us with a chance to have a family reunion. Therefore, it is very important for all Chinese people.

Model 2

What and when: The Lantern Festival falls on the 15th day of the 1st lunar month, usually in February or March.

What you did: On that day, family members and I ate yuanxiao. Yuanxiao is a kind of sweet dumpling, which is made with sticky rice flour filled with sweet. The Lantern Festival is also called the Yuanxiao Festival. We lighted fireworks as well.

What I like about it: In the daytime of the Festival, I like watching performances such as a dragon lantern dance, a lion dance and beating of drums. On the night, beautiful lanterns and fireworks form a beautiful scene. Most families spare some fireworks from the Spring Festival and let them off on that day. Some local governments will even organize a fireworks party.

What I dislike about it: Fireworks are very pretty, but they are also a source of air pollution. People light fireworks all night and it's noisy, so I cannot sleep well. These are what I dislike about the Lantern festival.

Why important: The Lantern Festival is an important part of the Spring Festival, and it represents unity and happiness.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.
