balloons can be a great danger to aircraft.

1. ... a balloon which seemed to be making for a ...

➤ sb./sth. seems to be doing = It seems that sb./sth. is doing

E.g. (1) They seem to be talking about something important.

= It seems that they are talking about ...

(2) She seems to be looking for somebody.

= It seems that she is looking for somebody.

2. ... balloons can be a great danger to aircraft.

➤ Use 'can' to express possibilities.

E.g. (1) Coral can be yellow, blue or green.

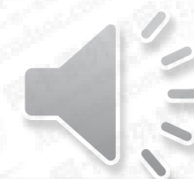

(2) Exercising alone can be boring.

He said that someone might be spying on the station and the pilot was ordered to keep track of the strange object. The pilot managed to circle the balloon for some time. He could make out three men in a basket under it and one of them was holding a pair of telescopes. When the balloon was over the station, the pilot saw one of the men taking photographs.

3. He said that someone might be spying on ...

➤ may VS. might: Both 'may' and 'might' can be used to make predictions. 'May' applies to situations that are possible or could be possible; 'might' applies to hypothetical, counterfactual or remotely possible situations.

E.g. (1) Tom may be watching TV in his room.

(2) He may be making the wrong choice.

(3) If you hurry, you might get there on time.

(4) We may go on vacation.

Soon afterwards, the balloon began to descend and it landed near an airfield (停机坪). The police were called in, but they could not arrest anyone, for the basket contained two Members of Parliament and the Commanding Officer of the station! ^[4] As the Commanding Officer explained later, one half of the station did not know what the other half was doing!

4. As the Commanding Officer explained later ...

➤ as sb. says/explains/suggests ... : used to quote sb. indirectly

➤ as the saying (谚语/格言) goes ...

E.g. (1) As she said in her speech, we need creativity in daily lives.

(2) As he explained later, he didn't realize he had made a mistake.

(3) As the saying goes, "Rome was not built in a day."
