

JOURNEY to the WEST 107

Nothing Is Perfect

The travelers laid the soaked scrolls on some rocks.

Bajie snorted.

“Who cares if you forgot the turtle’ s question?”

The travelers turned and saw a man hurrying toward them.

Chen noticed the scrolls lying on the rocks,
and his eyes went wide.

The pig grabbed a scroll and pulled.

But it was stuck to a rock.

Bajie hung his head.

“Nothing on Earth or in Heaven is perfect,” said Wukong.

People came out of their homes to see the travelers.

Later that night Wukong and the Tang Monk sat, talking.

The group sneaked out of Chen' s house and headed east.

Suddenly the guard from the Thunderclap Monastery appeared.
