You should say:

when it happened

for what you were late

why you were late and say how important it is to be punctual.

In the real examination, the examiner will ask you to prepare for 1 minute.

3.2 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the sentences highlighted below. (4 mins)

Model 2

What: It was really an embarrassing experience for me to be late for taking my middle school graduation photos. Although it happened 2 years ago, I still feel sorry for that.

When and why: I remember it happened in May, a month before I left school. The day before taking graduation photos, our teacher told us that we should arrive 45 minutes earlier than the first morning class began. As a person who has a bad memory, I forgot my teacher's reminder and got up at the same time as usual that day. When I arrived at school, I found the whole class had been waiting for me for half an hour. I felt so sorry.

How: Whenever I see the the graduation photos, I always think of this experience. Now, I keep writing down all the things I need to do every day. From my perspective, being punctual is really important. It is a virtue which makes others trust you.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

4. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please describe the topic below with what you have learned to make your description better. (5 mins)

Key sentences

I call people successful not because they have money or their business is doing well but because, as human beings, they have fully developed the sense of being alive and engaged.

With money, we can buy many things indeed, but we must know that money can't bring us everything, for example, we can't buy knowledge, precious time or true love with money.

Celebrities are special citizens and they make much contribution to our society, so they deserve the protection of laws made by governments.

I don't like being late. In my opinion, being late is impolite, because you make others wait and cause trouble for others.

There are two reasons that can explain why some people are always late. The first one is that they are not good at time management, and the second one is that maybe they have the bad habit of sleeping in.

For people who are always late, they should make punctuality one of their core values and make detailed plans every day.
