Model 1

What: The most unforgettable performance for me was a musical show I watched in a theatre last summer.

When and where: I can't exactly remember the name of the music show and where the theatre was, but I think that it was next to the National Gallery in London.

What and who: That was my first time watching a music show in London, and I went there with my classmates. Honestly speaking, I couldn't understand the lyrics that they were singing, but I got the main idea of the storyline by the awesome performance.

How you felt about it:

It was really an amazing experience for me. I have to say that all the performers were very professional, their voices were beautiful and the setting of the stage was awesome. I couldn't imagine how such a small stage could change into so many different backgrounds in such a limited time. All in all, it was a wonderful show.

Model 2

What: I would like to talk about a fantastic breakdancing show.

When, where and who: Two days ago, I saw a fantastic breakdancing show at the plaza of SOHO in Beijing. I went there to go shopping, but later I came across this awesome breakdancing show.

How you felt about it: It really left a deep impression on me. There were about ten breakdancers giving the audience a breathtaking performance. They were not only doing very difficult moves that matched perfectly to the beat of music, they were also keeping unity incredibly. Actually, break dancing is all about art, expression and culture, and I saw a communication between traditional Chinese activities and international culture. The breakdancing from those b-boys(breaking boys) was so amazing that everybody cheered for them.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.
