Model 1

What meal: I enjoyed the meal I had with my family on my college graduation day.

Where and who: It was on my graduation day in college. All my family members, my parents, my brother and my grandfather came to celebrate my graduation. After the ceremony, we went to a restaurant near the college. The restaurant was well-decorated, and the waiters were nice to us.

What: I can still recall that we ordered seafood and some other food. They were delicious. The whole family spent the entire afternoon in that restaurant, chatting and taking photos.

Why: I enjoyed the meal not because of the restaurant's good service and food, but because the last day I spent in university was with my family. It was a meaningful meal. My family's support gave me confidence for the future.

Model 2

Where and with whom: Two or three years ago, I travelled to Thailand with my friends. In order to experience more about the local culture, we didn't stay in a hotel. Instead, we chose to do a homestay. On the night of our arrival, the house owner cooked a delicious meal for us. It was so good that I can still remember it very clearly.

What: The meal was full of Thai cuisine, such as Pad Thai, Thai Green Chicken Curry, Tom Yum soup and so on. All the dishes were super fresh and spicy.

Why: I enjoyed the meal very much. I was a big fan of Thai food even before I went there. After this meal, I became an even bigger fan. The host was very nice, too. We chatted with each other and watched TV together. The host also gave us some tips about travelling in Thailand. It was really a good time.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.
