

51Talk IELTS Speaking-Advanced 雅思口语高级
——冲刺 7.5 分

Unit 1 People

Topic 6—Lesson 1(上篇)

An important friend

I. Pronunciation Practice (2 minutes)

Tense and Lax Vowels

cat cot cut

cap cop cup

hat hot hut

Read the following words and pay attention to the vowels.

lab lot cub

cab mop tub

mad nod mud

II. IELTS Speaking Part 1 (8 minutes)

Extend your answer to 3-4 sentences. It's easier to get 7.5.

1. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (4 minutes)

Do you like walking? Why/Why not?

Are there places you can walk around near your house?

Do people in your country like going for walks? Why/Why not?

The examiner will score your answer from the following aspects:

1. How good you are at keeping talking at the right speed and connecting your ideas together;
2. How much vocabulary you have and how well you use it;
3. How many structures you have and how well you use them;
4. How well you pronounce the language.

2. Read and learn the following key words and models for the IELTS Part 1. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (4 minutes)

Key Words and Models

mull over

Example: As a means to an end, I am quite neutral on the subject. Regarding walking as a leisure activity, I view the practice beneficial to one's overall health. Walking can also be a time to gather one's thoughts and prepare mentally for the future or mull over current problems. I personally treat walking as a recreational activity that enhances my physical and emotional health.

circular

Example: I live in a gated community in the suburbs, so there are quite a few places to take a long relaxing walk. The houses in my area are quite evenly distributed in a circular fashion and are thus conducive for long strolls. Another aspect that makes my area ideal for walking is the fact that immense evergreens are littered throughout the environment and in winter it looks especially beautiful.

dubious

Example: People in China will normally engage in walking after meals. This practice is believed to aid in digestion by improving the movement of food through the stomach. People who have this habit in China also believe walking can decrease the blood sugar in one's system, which leads to a reduction of the risk of developing diabetes. It seems not so dubious that studies have proven this by showing data on people thought to be at the risk of developing diabetes having used this habit to prevent the development of this particular disease.

III. IELTS Speaking Part 2 (12 minutes)

1. Brainstorm. Plan your answers based on the given questions. (1 minute)

Describe a friend who is important to you.

- What is the name of your friend?
- When and where did you meet this friend?
- What kinds of things do you and this friend like to do together?
- Why is this friend important to you?

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.1 Here is a model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (8 minutes)

Model 1

The name of your friend: Now I have to say this particular topic is moderately formidable in that guys have a tendency to not disclose their feelings to their friends. Don't get me wrong, though we do care to some small degree. Guys don't tend to share for appearance's sake, but if I had to choose one, I'd most possibly say it would be my roommate Nick.

When and where you met this friend: I had the pleasure of making his acquaintance during the early days of preschool.

What do you and your friend do together and why this friend is important: Funnily enough our interests are not similar at all, which may come as a surprise as there is the common fallacy that you need to have similar hobbies to be friends with someone. In fact, I think it's quite the opposite. Having similar hobbies just causes further misunderstandings and disagreements. Different interests prevent confrontations and disagreements. Personally he is intellectually superior to most and I find that we tend to end up on the same wavelength with most debates. The very last thing, to me I think problems in life tend to bound people together, especially when you go through them with someone. I suppose people you can actually trust and rely on these days are running scarce. My roommate happens to be one of them. I suppose the ability to be around them whilst acting like yourself is also of paramount importance.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

2.2 Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (3 minutes)

Describe a friend who is important to you.

You should say:

the name of your friend

when and where you met this friend

what kinds of things you and this friend like to do together and explain why this friend is important to you.

Homework: Please use the model for these two topics for further practice.

Describe your childhood friend.

Describe someone you have known for a long time.

Review (2 minutes)

Key Words & Expressions

mull over

circular

dubious

formidable

make one's acquaintance

of paramount importance

Key Sentences

Walking can also be a time to gather one's thoughts and prepare mentally for the future or mull over current problems.

The houses in my area are quite evenly distributed in a circular fashion and are thus conducive for long strolls.

It seems not so dubious that studies have proven this by showing data on people thought to be at the risk of developing diabetes having used this habit to prevent the development of this particular disease.

Now I have to say this particular topic is moderately formidable in that guys have a tendency to not disclose their feelings to their friends.

I had the pleasure of making his acquaintance during the early days of preschool.

I suppose the ability to be around them whilst acting like yourself is also of paramount importance.

You will learn more about this topic in Lesson 2.