Key Words and Models

lethargic

Example: When I travel, I tend to go out of season, so staying in high-grade hotels is much cheaper due to the low density of tourists. I am able to afford five-star hotels because of the lethargic occupancy rate during my excursions. I had the pleasure of staying in one about a year ago. It was an amazing hotel located right on the edge of a famous beach in the South Pacific.

basic amenities

Example: Most hotels in China have all the basic amenities that you would find scattered all over the world. Your basic hotel stay in China will undoubtedly include the access to hot showers and clean bed sheets. Also, these same hotels will oftentimes provide Wi-Fi, which has become a basic service in almost every respectable establishment around the globe.

rating

Example: There are many important factors to consider when you are selecting a hotel. The first factor is the hotel's rating. According to both professional and amateur reviewers, you can determine the overall quality of a hotel based on their rating. The second factor is the location of the hotel. You should choose a hotel closest to what you are interested in. The last factor is the quote per night of staying at the hotel.

III. IELTS Speaking Part 2 (12 minutes)

- How is it used?
- How has this invention influenced society?

2.1 Here is a model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (8 minutes)

Model 1

What the invention is: The indoor plumbing, though often overlooked by many citizens, is an invention that has produced immeasurable influences on the human society throughout the years.

When and where it was invented: It is hard to tell when this innovation was born, as archaeological remains of ancient civilisations show evidence of systems related to water supply and sanitation. However, the first and earliest known discovery of indoor plumbing was from the Indus Valley Civilisation, which is the first recorded instance of a society using flushing toilets. This is quite remarkable as this is a Bronze Age civilisation that flourished from 3300 to 1300 BCE.

How it is used: This particular invention has, for the most part, remained unchanged over the centuries. At its core, it relies on an underground system that constantly pumps clean water into homes, while also discarding waste water through a series of pipes.

How this invention has influenced society: Historically, societies have only been able to flourish if they had access to a constant supply of clean water. This is why all ancient civilisations were founded near major rivers, streams, and lakes. Without proper sanitation practices attributed to indoor plumbing, there would be an increased chance of disease, dehydration, and even death.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

2.2 Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (3 minutes)
