You should say:

what the activity was

when and where you did the activity

how you did it

and explain how you benefited from this activity.

In the real examination, the examiner will ask you to prepare for 1 minute.

3.2 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the sentences highlighted below. (4 mins)

Model 2

When, where and what: I remember an English lesson activity in my high school called Grammar Rodeo. My teacher at that time introduced this fun activity to us for practicing grammar.

How you did it: Our teacher would separate us into three groups of five students and then gave each group paper to write on. After that, the teacher would write a sentence on the blackboard and it was our task to rewrite the sentence and sort each word into their groups. Each team would only have five minutes per sentence, so while the teacher timed us, we all would race to finish first! I remember that my group had always won the match.

How you benefited: I benefited from this activity greatly because it stimulated my interest in grammar learning. Before this activity I never placed much emphasis on learning grammar as I considered it to be too tough to learn. However, the experience of Grammar Rodeo had made me realise that learning grammar could be fun. Since then, I have spent more time on grammar learning and as such my English grammar skills have become much better than before.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

4. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please describe the topic below with what you have learned to make your description better. (5 mins)

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Read and learn the following key words and sentences for the IELTS Part 3. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (5 mins)

Key words and key sentences conduct

Example: I suppose many people in China learn English mainly because it is the most useful language for both doing business and traveling. In China, a large number of deals with foreign companies are conducted in English, thus making it important and necessary to master. For travellers who travel to western countries especially English-speaking countries, they need to use English for daily communication.

universal

Example: I am not absolutely sure about the perfect age to learn a language, but several studies suggest that children should start learning a foreign language at age three. I guess it also suits English learning. Based on a recent study, it's said that children in this period have an almost universal success rate at achieving near fluency and perfect accents in English learning.

devote oneself to

Example: I suppose it's more challenging for adults to learn a second language compared with children. Children in a certain period have special gifts in language learning, whereas adults already miss that period. Also, different from children, adults cannot fully devote themselves to language learning because of their work, family and other issues. Therefore their exposure to a second language cannot reach the same level as children in language learning.

2. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (5 mins)

Please give two supporting ideas at least for each question.

Why do people learn English in China?

What do you think is the best age for children to begin learning English?

Do adults have more difficulties than children in learning a foreign language?

V. Summary (5 mins)

Key sentences

This is a very difficult question to answer. In general, I think most Chinese people prefer stability in their personal and work lives.

Whenever you change your workplace you have to adapt to a new working environment, which includes meeting new people, receiving training, and possibly moving to a new city.

I do not like changes in my work. I like to be in a steady working environment where my jobs are predictable.

In China, a large number of deals with foreign companies are conducted in English, thus making it important and necessary to master.

Based on a recent study, it's said that children in this period have an almost universal success rate at achieving near fluency and perfect accents in English learning.

Also, different from children, adults cannot fully devote themselves to language learning because of their work, family and other issues.
