You should say:

what the questionnaire or survey was about

why you were asked to give your opinions

what opinions you gave and explain how you felt about giving your opinions in this questionnaire or survey.

In the real examination, the examiner will ask you to prepare for 1 minute.

3.2 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the sentences highlighted below. (4 mins)

Model 2

What: I am going to talk about a customer satisfaction survey.

Why: I once had dinner at a restaurant with my friends. After we paid our bill, a guy who looked like a manager came to us, smiled and said, "Would you mind helping us do a survey on our food and service, and to show gratitude, we will give you a 10-dollar coupon." I agreed happily.

What opinions you gave: I told that guy the food in this restaurant was savory but it didn't taste that fresh. Besides, the service was not that satisfying. Maybe all the waiters and waitresses were too busy at that time.

How you felt: Having said this, I felt a little regretful because I was afraid that my words would hurt the manager's feelings. However, the manager told me that he appreciated my feedback very much. According to my feedback, they would take measures to ensure high food quality and improve their service.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

Key sentences

I have been living next to my neighbours for 14 years, so I know them really well. We usually help each other. I have a good relationship with them.

I guess people sometimes have minor conflicts with their neighbours, for example, noise problems, disagreements over the placement of trash and so forth.

It's not that easy for neighbours to help each other if they're not familiar with each other, but I guess neighbours can really come in handy in case of an emergency.

Non-governmental enterprises pay more attention to what their customers and staff think, because their choices and decisions directly affect the survival or demise of the company.

The cost of carrying out questionnaires or surveys is very low. Samples can be easily collected.

Well, I don't know why some people don't want to give their opinions. I always use "busy" or "I'm occupied at the moment" as excuses.
