A meeting you remember going to

IELTS Speaking Part 2 (10 minutes)

You will be given one minute to prepare to talk about the topic on the task card. You will have to talk for 1-2 minutes, and then the teacher will give you feedback for 2-3mins. (5 minutes)

Describe a meeting you remember going to at work, college or school.

You should say:

when and where the meeting was held

who was at the meeting

what the people at the meeting talked about and explain why you remember going to this meeting.

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.3 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (5 minutes)

Model 2

When and where the meeting was held: A very special meeting I attended last spring was a defining moment for me. The meeting was held at our headquarters in Shenzhen and included everybody in upper and lower management roles. In order to take advantage of people's eagerness, the meeting was held early in the morning at ten o'clock a.m..

Who was at the meeting: All of the company's managers and supervisors from the region were present at this particular meeting, which considerably lifted its level of significance.

What the people at the meeting talked about: This event was strictly a problem-solving meeting. We defined scopes and priorities and we also identified threats to the company's bottom line. Perhaps the most important thing we discussed at the meeting was our company's strategy of moving forward.

Why you remember going to this meeting: The reason why I remember going to this meeting is the sheer importance it held. This meeting was to decide many critical goals that would steer our company in the right direction. The feeling in the air was electric. Attending this meeting gave me a sense of importance within the company and made me determine to stay with the company forever.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Please answer the following question from Part 3. According to your answer, the teacher will give you feedback on how to improve your organisational skills. (5 minutes)

How to organise your answer in Part 3:

I: Introduction Sentence + P: Points (Point1, Point2...)

What are the different types of meetings that people often go to?

I: I think employees in different organisations are supposed to attend meetings, all of which have their own purposes and levels of relevance. However, there are four major types of meetings.

P1: The first type of meeting is report and information-oriented, such as a press conference held by a government official or by a celebrity.

P2: The second type of meeting is for decision-making and problem-solving. These meetings usually play a critical role in business administration.

P3: The third type is the creative and brainstorming meeting. Artists or academicians may often attend such meetings.

P4: The final type of meeting is for training and skill-building. Those who are newly-recruited may find such meetings extremely helpful.

2. You will learn some key words and expressions from these questions. Pay attention to the structure of the underlined sentences, and the words in red. (5 minutes)

Key Words and Models

Some people say that no one likes to go to meetings. What do you think?

In my opinion, most people's issues with meetings stem from being overloaded with work in the first place. These people have so many obligations at work that it is nearly impossible to ever actually complete them on schedule. This creates a situation where anything that interrupts their working routines is delaying their progress, which stresses them out and gives them a negative outlook on meetings in general.

Why can it sometimes be important to go to meetings?

Meetings almost always serve specific purposes and therefore are useful as gathering places to optimise the sharing of relevant information. Also, no matter whether the organisation is a massive multi-national corporation or a simple start-up company, meetings are normally where people are given their specific missions within the company. If you miss one of these meetings, your working efficiency may be negatively affected, which even could cause you to lose your job.
