I. Pronunciation Practice (2 minutes)

Silent 'e' with Letter 'i'

Generally, letter 'i' makes the sound /ɪ/ in words like hid; however, when we add 'e' at the end of the word 'hide', 'i' makes the sound /aɪ/, and 'e' doesn't make a sound.

Read the following and pay attention to the sound of 'i'.

kit /ɪ/

kite /aɪ/

bit

bite

jib

jibe

II. IELTS Speaking Part 1 (8 minutes)

Extend your answer to 3-4 sentences. It's easier to get 7.5.

1. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (4 minutes)

Have you ever given your friends some useful advice?

Do you like giving others advice?

When would you ask for advice from others?

The examiner will score your answer from the following aspects:

1. How good you are at keeping talking at the right speed and connecting your ideas together;
2. How much vocabulary you have and how well you use it;
3. How many structures you have and how well you use them;
4. How well you pronounce the language.

2. Read and learn the following key words and models for the IELTS Part 1. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (4 minutes)

Key Words and Models

artificial

Example: I normally avoid giving friends advice because I want to avoid being seen as artificial. However, with regard to very close friends, I have been known to dole out small amounts of useful advice. Since I have been working for several years, I mostly give my close friends advice on how to work more efficiently.

detached

Example: I get relatively detached when it comes to giving advice, so it is not something I find enjoyable. If possible I do my best to avoid situations that may require my advice, especially in the personal affairs of others. However, I do enjoy giving my co-workers advice because it usually ends up benefiting me somehow.

muddle sth. up

Example: I tend to ask for advice at work, especially when I have muddled something up. I think it is important to ask for advice about a job or a specific task because it leads fewer issues further down the line. I also recently read a report that people who ask for advice at work are perceived as more intelligent by their colleagues.

- Where do you usually read it?
- How does it compare to other things you read?

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.1 Here is a model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (8 minutes)

Model 1

Where you usually buy it: An amazing magazine I buy once a week is GQ. I normally buy it from my local convenient store, which I pass every day on my way to work. It is relatively inexpensive as far as magazine prices go, and this is probably why I purchase every new issue of this magazine.

What parts of it you most enjoy reading: Whenever I read this magazine, I normally skip to my favourite section, which is men's fitness. Here I can find all kinds of tips and tricks for getting in shape. Every new issue has interviews with famous personal trainers around the world. Their expert advice really keeps me in the know. Meanwhile, I find the section related to men's style trends to be very informative and helpful as well.

Where you usually read it: Since I always buy this magazine when I am on my way to work, I typically read it on my morning commute. The bus is the perfect place for me to enjoy reading such lengthy illustrated reading material.

How it compares to other things you read: Compared to the academic literature that I usually read, these magazines are mostly for entertainment purposes. I suppose it could be said that this particular magazine caters to my personal physical needs, since I mostly use it as a kind of fitness and fashion manual.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.
