

51Talk IELTS Speaking-Advanced

雅思口语高级

——冲刺 7.5 分

Unit 1 People

Topic 6—Lesson 2(下篇)

An important friend

IELTS Speaking Part 2 (10 minutes)

You will be given one minute to prepare to talk about the topic on the task card. You will have to talk for 1-2 minutes, and then the teacher will give you feedback for 2-3mins. (5 minutes)

Describe a friend who is important to you.

You should say:

the name of your friend

when and where you met this friend

what kinds of things you and this friend like to do together and explain why this friend is important to you.

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.3 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (5 minutes)

Model 2

Name of your friend: We happen to be incredibly sociable animals and having a friend or preferably friends is vital for our happiness and satisfaction. One of my best friends is called Joseph.

When and where you met this friend: I knew my friend through high school where we happened to be in the same house and of a similar age.

What you like to do with your friend and why this friend is important: Our interests were fairly aligned and hence we enjoyed similar hobbies such as playing giant Frisbee and occasionally the odd game of rugby. Though the friends we claim to have are all too numerous, it's a rare occurrence to find an important one. Friends are frequently discarded and forgotten, but those who remain would perhaps be deemed important. This is actually rather sad seeing as this question is implying that the vast majority of friends are not important. This is all too true in our society where friendships are made and broken on a daily basis purely for the furtherance of one's wealth or power. The meaning of friendship has been clouded by so many aspects and it's simply lost its purity and innocence to the point where we must now make a distinction between important or unimportant friends. Surely by the definition of friendship, we must cherish the authentically innocent friendship. This is why Joseph is important to me, purely as he holds the title of friend.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Please answer the following question from Part 3. According to your answer, the teacher will give you feedback on how to improve your organisational skills. (5 minutes)

How to organise your answer in Part 3:

T: Topic Sentence + S: Supporting Details (Explanation/Examples)

Where do people typically make friends?

T: From my point of view, people typically make friends in environments that are socially engaging.

S1: For the most part, friends are made at school, such as primary school, high school, or even college. It seems much easier to make friends in an atmosphere where people of the same age are growing up together, because they are compatible with each other in many aspects.

S2: As for adults, the main source to meet new friends is the workplace, where people often share the same goal and work toward it through strong teamwork. In this process, friendship is quite likely to be built and maintained among colleagues.

2. You will learn some key words and expressions from these questions. Pay attention to the structure of the underlined sentences, and the words in red. (5 minutes)

Key Words and Models

What impact has technology (computers, cellphones, the Internet etc.) had on people's friendships?

 Technology has had both positive and negative effects on people's general friendships. For the most part, technology serves to augment positive aspects of people's friendships by allowing them to keep in touch over great distances. Alternatively, in some cases technology can act as a barrier between people. For example, in some instances people will use their cellphones to have a short conversation when the recipient is literally right next to them.

Are friends ever more important than family?

 The time when friends seem more important than family is when we are young. As a teenager it is usually difficult to confide in an adult since adolescence is full of chemical changes leading people to behave differently than normal. Teenagers usually choose to trust their peers rather than their parents during this period of development and it could be said that at this time friends are somewhat more important than family as it pertains to trust.

V. Summary (5 minutes)

Key Words & Expressions

align discard

hold the title of

be compatible with

augment confide in

Key Sentences

Our interests were fairly aligned and hence we enjoyed similar hobbies such as playing giant Frisbee and occasionally the odd game of rugby.

Friends are frequently discarded and forgotten, but those who remain would perhaps be deemed important.

This is why Joseph is important to me, purely as he holds the title of friend.

It seems much easier to make friends in the atmosphere where people of the age are growing up together, because they are compatible with each other in many aspects.

For the most part, technology serves to augment positive aspects of people's friendships by allowing them to keep in touch over great distances.

As a teenager it is usually difficult to confide in an adult since age is full of chemical changes leading people to behave differently than normal.

The next lesson will be Unit 2 Topic 1 A meal(dish) you like to eat.