

51Talk IELTS Speaking-Advanced

雅思口语高级

——冲刺 7.5 分

Unit 2 Food

Topic 5—Lesson 2(下篇)

A dish on a special day

IELTS Speaking Part 2 (10 minutes)

You will be given one minute to prepare to talk about the topic on the task card. You will have to talk for 1-2 minutes, and then the teacher will give you feedback for 2-3mins. (5 minutes)

Describe a dish on a special day.

You should say:

what the dish is called which special day or festival it is cooked for

how it is cooked

and explain why it is a family favourite.

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.3 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (5 minutes)

Model 2

What the dish is called: I'd like to discuss the Sunday roast.

Which special day it is cooked for: The roots of it I believe came from the Sabbath or Sunday, and it is the day for dining and reuniting with family after a week of work. The Sunday roast is a tradition adopted by almost all families. The meal is enjoyed during the early evening on a Sunday. The reason for eating it so early is that the typical family would start the day off with a large brunch, and to avoid hunger, they shift the evening meal forward slightly.

How it is cooked: The meal is simple, composed of roasted meats, usually constrained to beef, gammon, turkey, and lamb, which is accompanied by various sauces such as cranberry, mustard and horse radish. As for carbs, we typically have roasted potatoes and stuffing, which is bread made with herbs and juices. On top of that we pile on some gravy, again made with juices from the meat and vegetables. Finally, we have a few Yorkshire puddings to finish it off.

Why it is a family favourite: This meal is not especially special in the sense that it doesn't signify anything deep as opposed to perhaps the Chinese New Year meal you have with your family. However, the Sunday roast is frequently regarded as the bread and butter of the British cuisine and it's something everyone is so familiar with, ultimately making it a family tradition.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Please answer the following question from Part 3. According to your answer, the teacher will give you feedback on how to improve your organisational skills. (5 minutes)

How to organise your answer in Part 3:

I: Introduction Sentence + P: Points (Point1, Point2...)

What kinds of food do Chinese people like to eat?

I: Chinese people love to eat a large variety of food, some of which might be considered strange by western standards.

P1: Traditional food like dumplings, noodles, moon cakes and zongzi are quite popular among many households in China, particularly when certain festivals arrive.

P2: Besides, some Chinese prefer to eat spicy chicken feet and pig's feet. They believe that these two exotic foods bring good luck! Some People in China even eat cooked spiders and scorpions. They have also been known to indulge in other types of insects, such as grasshoppers and chocolate covered ants.

2. You will learn some key words and expressions from these questions. Pay attention to the structure of the underlined sentences, and the words in red. (5 minutes)

Key Words and Models

How do Chinese people learn how to cook?

 Chinese people learn how to cook the exact same way all people learn how to cook which is by using a variety of avenues. The first way we learn how to cook is through direct observation of our family members, usually our mother or grandmother. The other way is through the classic method of reading cookbooks as well as watching instructional cooking TV shows.

What are the differences between restaurant food and food cooked at home?

 Food prepared at a restaurant and food made at home is a different kettle of fish. At a restaurant food is cooked for money, but at home food is cooked for you, thus having disparate consequences. For the most part, cooking your own meals gives you more control over what ingredients go into the dish, while meals made at a restaurant do not have such inherent flexibility. Eating food at home is also more hygienic and safer, because if you happen to have a food allergy, you will avoid adding that component, whereas at a restaurant you have no guarantee.

V. Summary (5 minutes)

Key Words & Expressions

start off with pile on

as opposed to avenue

a different kettle of fish disparate

Key Sentences

The reason for eating it so early is that the typical family would start the day off with a large brunch, and to avoid hunger they shift the evening meal forward slightly.

On top of that we pile on some gravy, again made with juices from the meat and vegetables. Finally, we have a few Yorkshire puddings to finish it off.

This meal is not especially special in the sense that it doesn't signify anything deep as opposed to perhaps the Chinese New Year meal you have with your family.

Chinese people learn how to cook the exact same way all people cook using a variety of avenues.

Food prepared at a restaurant and food made at home is a different kettle of fish.

At a restaurant food is cooked for money, but at home food is cooked for you, thus having disparate consequences.

The next lesson will be Unit 2 Topic 6 A foreign food you would like to try.