Unit 9 Event

Topic 1—Lesson 1(上篇)

An important choice

I. Pronunciation Practice (2 minutes)

the 'nt' Cluster

In the consonant cluster 'nt', if it is followed by a vowel sound, the /t/ sound may be dropped. A flapped 'n' is used in its place.

Read the following sentences and pay attention to the 'nt' cluster.

1. The centre of town is that way. (cen'ner)
2. The renter of the house couldn't pay the rent. (ren'ner)
3. That shirt costs twenty dollars. (twen'ny)

II. IELTS Speaking Part 1 (8 minutes)

Extend your answer to 3-4 sentences. It's easier to get 7.5.

1. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (4 minutes)

Do you prefer to have a particular friend or a group of friends? Why?

What do you like doing most with your friend/friends? Why?

Do you think it is important to keep in contact with friends you knew as a child? Why/why not?

The examiner will score your answer from the following aspects:

1. How good you are at keeping talking at the right speed and connecting your ideas together;
2. How much vocabulary you have and how well you use it;
3. How many structures you have and how well you use them;
4. How well you pronounce the language.

2. Read and learn the following key words and models for the IELTS Part 1. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (4 minutes)

Key Words and Models

quality over quantity

 Example: I prefer quality over quantity when it comes to friends, so for me it is better to have a core group of just a few dependable friends. In my humble opinion, having fewer friends is much easier to manage than a large group, because having a huge number of friends requires less attention and focus put into each of those relationships. However, having just a small group of best friends gives you the chance to really get to know each person on a more personal level.

painting the town red

 Example: I love going out with a group of my closest friends and painting the town red. When you are out and about with your friends, it really does not matter what the activity is because as long as you are together anything will be fun. Personally, my group of friends all play on each other's strengths, so if we ever come across an obstacle, we are able to conquer it with relative ease. So in short, doing things with friends is sort of a safety net that allows you to relax and really enjoy yourself.

drift apart

 Example: Although keeping in contact with a few childhood friends might be beneficial, I do not think that it is important. For the most part people change dramatically as they mature, so friends that are made when young will almost always drift apart. Since this is a normal occurrence it is pointless to spend much time cultivating friendships at such a young age. Also, as people get older they tend to move away, get jobs, and make new friends that fit their personal preferences.

III. IELTS Speaking Part 2 (12 minutes)

1. Brainstorm. Plan your answers based on the given questions. (1 minute)

Describe an important choice you had to make in your life.

- When did you have to make this choice?
- Why did you have to make this choice?
- How did you feel when you were making this choice?
- Did you make a good choice?

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.1 Here is a model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (8 minutes)

Model 1

When: As my ability to speak English denotes, I have been practicing for a certain exam for years now, ever since I decided to study abroad in order to secure a Bachelor's of Science from the U.K..

Why: Although this might be a controversial answer, I decided at an early age in high school that the best way to secure a bright and successful future was to study in the West and since not going to the university was not the option in my mind, I started to prepare for the IELTS exam.

How you felt: As with making a big decision in life, it feels good to have the weight off my shoulders, but at the same time the feelings are tinged with doubt and nervousness.

Was it a good choice: In the moment I do not think choices are inherently good or bad, because regardless of this classification, they can still lead to either positive or negative outcomes. However, personally the decision to study for the IELTS exam helped me vastly improve my English over time, which has presented me with more opportunities than if I had never done so. I now work in a cushy office, utilising my English skills for the betterment of my country and my own personal future!

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

2.2 Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (3 minutes)

Describe an important choice you had to make in your life.

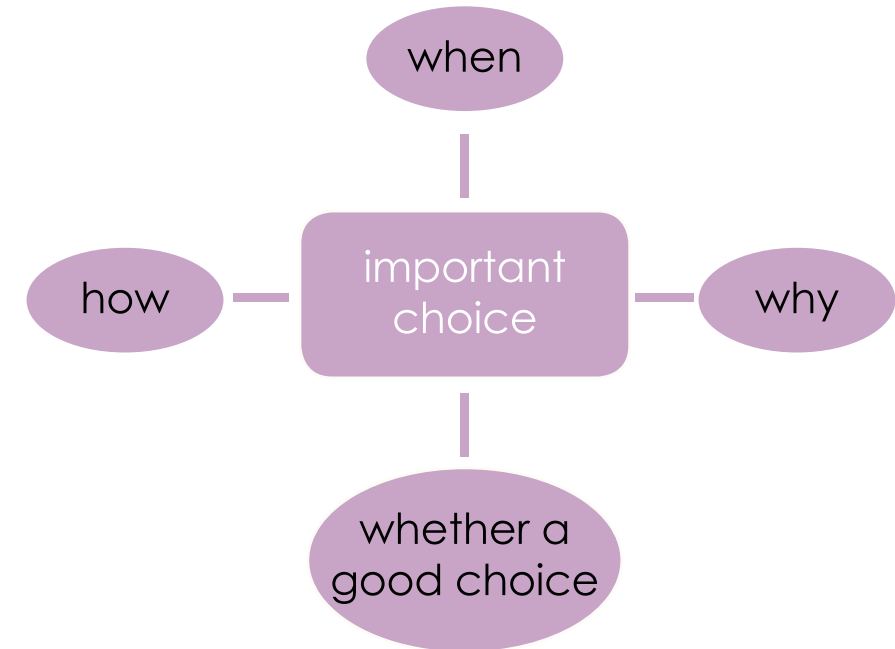

You should say:

when you had to make this choice

why you had to make this choice

how you felt when you were making this choice and explain whether you made a good choice.

Homework: Please use the model for these two topics for further practice.

Describe a choice you made.

Describe a decision you made.
