

JOURNEY to the WEST 75

Battle of the Wukongs

The two Wukongs stared at Curious Ear.

The two Wukongs began swinging their iron bars
at each other.

“Buddha can help you,” said Curious Ear.

“You’ re nervous!” said the first Wukong.

They soon arrived in the Western Paradise.

“I must speak with Buddha right away.”

said one of the Wukongs.

In front of Buddha, the first Wukong bowed.

The other Wukong gasped and then vanished.

When Buddha lifted the bowl,
a tiny monkey spirit lay on the table.

Guanyin decided it was time for Wukong to rejoin his companions on the journey.

“Yes, Bodhisattva,” said the Tang Monk,
bowing.
