 Example: Computer games are the most popular type of games in China these days. In recent years playing multi-player online games that take advantage of advanced computer technology to display detailed graphics and fast reacting game play has been the hottest choice among Chinese gamers. I suppose the reason is that many of these computers are quite affordable and sometimes the games are even free-to-play, making the main cost the computer itself.

be exhausted from

 Example: Personally, I play online games similar to many young men in China. For me playing games online is competitive and if you are exhausted from work, sitting in front of a computer to socialise and play is a great alternative to doing anything that requires physical activity. I also think playing games online can be a great way to practice and enhances one's reaction time, as studies have shown that gaming can help improve one's brain functions.

foster teamwork

 Example: No matter what games you play, whether they are computer games or actual physical games like dodge ball, playing plays a pivotal role in the development of both children and adults. For children it helps to foster teamwork and communication skills as well as advanced socialisation. For adults playing games is a release from the world and a way to escape reality, which many people desperately need.

III. IELTS Speaking Part 2 (12 minutes)

1. Brainstorm. Plan your answers based on the given questions. (1 minute)

Describe an open-air or street market which you enjoyed visiting.

- Where is the market?
- What does the market sell?
- How big is the market?
- Why did you enjoy visiting it?

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.1 Here is a model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (8 minutes)

Model 1

Where the market is: Admittedly, there are many of these sorts of markets near the area where I live, but I have yet to visit any of them. However, during my brief sojourn in Hong Kong I was given the opportunity to visit what seemed to constitute an open air market.

What the market sells: The market itself predominantly sold electronic equipment of all sorts. I remember seeing many types of expensive headphones that seemed to accompany tablets of varying sizes.

How big the market is: As for the size, again, I had no time to traverse the entirety of the market and what I did see held little interest for me.

Why enjoyed visiting it: To be frank, the reason why the market has left such a profound impression on me lies in the particular company I had at the time of my visit. In my humble opinion, it's not where you visit, but rather who you go with that really matters. I was fortunately there with a bosom friend of mine and our exchanges of stories and jokes livened things up. Overall, I'm sure the market would have been no doubt lovely had I delved deeper within.

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

2.2 Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (3 minutes)

Describe an open-air or street market which you enjoyed visiting.

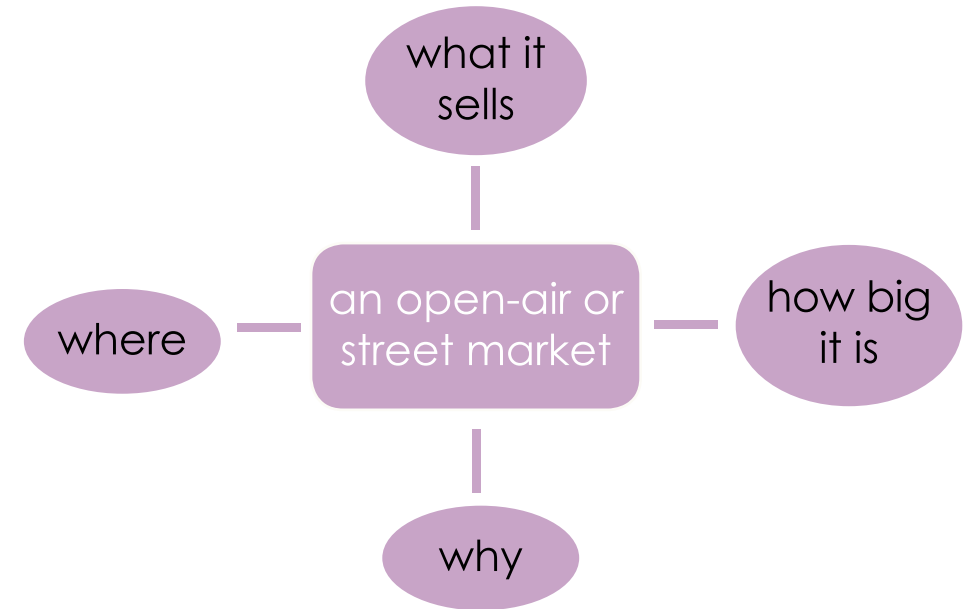

You should say:

where the market is

what the market sells

how big the market is

and explain why you enjoyed visiting it.

Homework: Please use the model for these two topics for further practice.

Describe an interesting place.

Describe a trip.
