A radio programme

IELTS Speaking Part 2 (10 minutes)

You will be given one minute to prepare to talk about the topic on the task card. You will have to talk for 1-2 minutes, and then the teacher will give you feedback for 2-3mins. (5 minutes)

Describe a radio programme you like.

You should say:

what the programme is when you first listened to it what content attracted you most and explain why you choose this programme to talk about.

Tips: During the first stage of Part 2, you don't need to talk. Keep the questions in mind and think them over.

2.3 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the words and expressions highlighted and in red below. (5 minutes)

Model 2

What the programme is: To tell you the truth, the specific radio programme that proves extremely appealing to me is the one titled “Stuff to Blow Your Mind”.

When you first listened to it: I have only just started listening to this programme actually. I discovered it about four weeks ago and have listened to it periodically since then.

What content attracted you the most: The content of this radio programme is geared towards teaching obscure but relevant facts about a wide range of topics. I love how the programme presents its topics in a clear formulaic way. It always starts with an interesting introduction, then an amazing body of facts, followed by a great conclusion that ties the whole episode together.

Why you chose this programme to talk about: The reason I chose to talk about this programme is simple. I like the clear-cut logic in the way this show presents new information. The order and clarity of the new information told through this programme allows me to retain more of the new information that I have managed to learn. Thus, I am perfectly confident that it will continue to broaden my horizon in the future, and may even help me become a more knowledgeable and creative individual.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

How to organise your answer in Part 3:

T: Topic Sentence + S: Supporting Details (Explanation/Examples)

How has people's radio listening habits changed in the past 20 years?

T: People's radio listening habits have changed dramatically over the last 20 years, and people today listen to the radio less and less due to advancements in technology.

S1: The rising advancements in handheld computing devices and the fact that people cannot even go a few hours without them mean that people are using these even while driving, and driving is where the traditional radio used to reach the most listeners.

S2: Having personal computing devices also allows people to be in control of what they are listening to, thus giving them a greater amount of freedom and choices. Such freedom means people are less likely to listen to the radio if they don't have to.

2. You will learn some key words and expressions from these questions. Pay attention to the structure of the underlined sentences, and the words in red. (5 minutes)

Key Words and Models

Do people of different ages have different listening tastes?

 The answer to this is obviously yes. People are greatly affected by their environments, and growing up means you have adapted to certain types of music or radio programmes. Since music is always changing, it means that as we age each generation will have its own preferences towards what it finds pleasant. So in conclusion, each generation's tastes in listening will be reflected in what is popular during their march to adulthood, which means age plays a vital role in deciding what one's tastes are in all things, but especially in listening habits.

What is the trend for the development of radio programmes?

 It seems to me that the trend related to radio programmes is one of specialisation. Modern technology makes it much easier to choose content that we are interested in. This abundance of choices leads to radio programmes that specialise in certain areas, such as general news, music, talk radio, and educational programmes just to name a few. This growing trend for radio programmes means that in the future the most successful radio programmes are the ones that adapt their content to reach the largest audience.
