Model 2

What type of film it was: A film that really entertained me was the movie Interstellar. It is a science fiction movie and the genre is usually referred to as sci-fi.

What it was about: This story takes place about two hundred years into the future. The world as we know it has changed drastically. Much like what happened to the planet Mars, our planet is losing its atmosphere and has basically reduced the population to only about five hundred million people. The only hope for the survival of our species is a manned space flight into a newly discovered wormhole that has mysteriously appeared in our solar system.

Why you enjoyed it: This movie was directed by one of my favourite directors Christopher Nolan. He really made this film spectacular by infusing it with magnificent special effects. Another reason I enjoyed this movie was that it actually utilized real science in the film, and after watching it, you could actually come away from the experience having learned something useful and enlightening.

Whether this film was popular in your country: This particular movie was so popular in China that many people crowded into special theatres just to see this film.

T: Topic Sentence + S: Supporting Details (Explanation/Examples)

Does your country have a rating system for cinema?

T: As it currently stands, China does not have a formal rating system for cinema, but it is predictable that such a system will be adopted in the near future.

S1: At present, there seems to be only one classification for movies in China and that is “suitable for all ages”, which in my opinion makes it hard to cast good actors for certain roles.

S2: However, according to recent reports, many people in China's movie industry are working towards developing a rating system. This system is rumored to be based on the American movie rating system. An official has even submitted a formal draft to the State Administration of Press, Publication, Radio, Film and Television (SAPPRFT).

2. You will learn some key words and expressions from these questions. Pay attention to the structure of the underlined sentences, and the words in red. (5 minutes)

What is the trend of films in your country?

There is definitely a noticeable trend in what films depict in mainland China. Many films in China are about ancient times, especially the Three Kingdoms Period, the Tang Dynasty, the Qing Dynasty, etc.. Of course, some of them are not about China in the distant past, but rather they are about China in the recent past. For example, which feature about WWII are very popular in China. In fact, films are tightly monitored by the Chinese government. Therefore, those with inappropriate content are always prohibited.

Please provide some suggestions on the development of films in your country.

Recently, cinema in China has begun to boom with many big budget Hollywood movies filming in China in cooperation with Chinese film studios. However, Chinese movies have only remained popular among Chinese people and have yet to become popular with an international audiences. I think in order for Chinese cinema to be successful, we need to make our movies more appealing to a larger audience, either by diversifying the themes or by adopting more advanced filming techniques.
