From there, he hitchhiked to Paris in a truck. The driver gave him a few biscuits and a cup of coffee and left him just outside the city. The next car the boy stopped did not take him into the center of Paris as he hoped it would, but to Perpignan on the French-Spanish border. There he was picked up by a policeman and sent back to England by the local authorities. He has surely set up a record for the thousands of children who dream of evading school.

Did the boy go where he wanted to?

F. Extra exercise

- Write a paragraph using the ideas given below.

The boy returned – sick, cold and hungry – his parents were worried – met him at the harbor – their reactions.

The boy who went across the border of his country while playing truant finally returned home. As he did not have enough food to eat for two days, he got sick, cold and hungry. His parents were worried about his safety while he was away, and they looked for him everywhere. When they met him at the harbor, they got so excited and happy. Their reactions made the boy feel ashamed of himself.
