Describe a journey [e.g. by car, plane, boat] that you remember well.

You should say:

where you went

how you travelled

why you went on the journey and explain why you remember this journey well.

In the real examination, the examiner will ask you to prepare for 1 minute.

3.2 Here is another model for the IELTS Speaking Part 2. We will focus on the sentences highlighted below. (4 mins)

Model 2

Where: One particular excursion I remember is a trip I took to Moscow about two years ago. I went to visit a study-abroad student who had lived with our family for a year.

Why you went on: We were her host family, and the two of us hit it off quite swimmingly. After she returned home from the exchange program, we kept in touch over the years. She was constantly urging me to pay a visit, but I've always had a fear of flying. Then she suggested I take a train.

How: Since I didn't feel like taking a very long train ride, it took me some time to make up my mind, but I ended up taking the Tran-Siberian railroad to Moscow.

Why you remember: As it turned out, this trip was one of the best excursions that I had ever had, due to the gorgeous scenery along the way, as well as the experience of making several new friends among my fellow passengers. The train was filled with extraordinary people, who I had the pleasure of meeting and becoming friends with. Surprisingly, one of them was reported to be a Russian count that had close relationships to the royal family all the way in England!

注: count (欧洲贵族称号) 伯爵

You are required to talk for the full 2 minutes.

IV. IELTS Speaking Part 3 (10 mins)

1. Read and learn the following key words and sentences for the IELTS Part 3. You are suggested to apply these words in the following steps. (5 mins)

Key words and key sentences perceive

Example: I think what people can learn from travelling varies greatly based on their past experiences and the purpose of their trips. For example, someone who has studied sociology may learn to perceive the advantages of a different social system through field observation, while an artist might tend to pay more attention to the distinctive styles of architecture and design between countries.

stimulate

Example: From my perspective, travel can definitely have positive economic impacts on a given area. First, travelers from different countries are very likely to purchase local goods, which stimulate the sales industry in the host country. Also, tourism creates jobs through direct employment within the tourism industry. When these people spend money on goods and services, it leads to what is known as the "multiplier effect", creating more jobs.

overall

Example: I think there are definite benefits to a society whose citizens have gained more knowledge of other countries through travelling. From the economic point of view, people who have travelled abroad tend to bring more foreign goods and investments back into their home country, which may provide more opportunities for trade. As for the social effects, knowing how foreign countries function helps to build an overall understanding of how one's own society can improve.

2. Imagine you are a candidate in the IELTS test. The teacher is an examiner. Please answer the questions below with what you have learned to develop your IELTS answers. (5 mins)

Please give two supporting ideas at least for each question.

What do you think people will learn from travelling to other countries? Why?

Can travel make a positive difference to the economy of a country? How?

Do you think a society can benefit if its members have experience of travelling to other countries?

V. Summary (5 mins)

Key sentences

Ever since the advent of text-messaging service, I've made a constantly decreasing amount of phone calls.

I reckon the person who I spend the most time talking on the phone to is my mother.

If I'm sending a query that isn't urgent or chatting aimlessly, I'll often send a text message instead of directly calling the other person. By doing so I don't feel as if I'm disturbing the other person, and they can answer at their own convenience.

For example, someone interested in sociology may learn to perceive the advantages of a different social system through such field observations.

The development of travel industry can definitely boost the economy of the country. First, travelers from different countries are very likely to purchase local goods, which stimulate the sales industry in the host country.

As for the social effects, knowing how foreign countries function helps to build an overall understanding of how one's own society can improve.
